BANKER FITZGERALD'S SON IN FOREBODING BAIL IN DRUNK CASE

DETAILS OF WHEN CASE IS CALLED

Outland from First Place.

It is recalled in connection with the case of the son of the banker who faces court after an auto crash, that the case was called for trial at 10 o'clock.

It was then reported to a city paper, which was repeated until "about" this morning.

Witnesses to the crash told police that the "Fitzgerald" car spun around with the driver's machine.

Samuel John, Jr., 35, of Belmont street, was killed, and it is reported that the car spun around with the driver's machine.

SEEK AUTHOR OF NEW LETTER IN WARD CASE

WILLIAM F. FITZGERALD, JR.

White Plains, N. Y., June 27.—The tactics working on the Charles Peters slaying mystery in connection with which Walter R. Ward, wealthy banker's son, has been indicted for first degree murder, today assumed a new twist.

The writer of a new anonymous letter, who claimed to have seen Peters' body dumped from an automobile near the Kenesaw reservoir on the night of May 15.

The writer's story, if believed, would upset Ward's claim that he saw Peters at the spot where the body was found.

The new letter, written by a woman, said that she was in a light-colored automobile at the roadside near the Kenesaw reservoir on the night of May 15, when a second car drove up and stopped. The body of a man was found outside, and the car drove off the letter said.

Mr. Ward said he was not inclined to place much credence in the letter.

REACH AGREEMENT IN STEVENS WILL CONTEST

Hoboken, N. H., June 27.—The contest of the will of the late John Henry Stevens, which was started before surrogate James Foley and a jury in New York, ended when it was announced the contesting parties had agreed upon a settlement.

Stevens, who had been a member of the New York legislature, died in 1910, leaving a fortune of $1,000,000.

The settlement, which was reached after a long and bitter fight, provided that the estate be divided equally between the two sons, John and William.

Pawtucket Boy Burned

Pawtucket, R. I., June 27.—As a result of burns received while playing with a box of matches at his home in Pawtucket, Rhode Island, James Grady, seven-year-old son of Edward and Katherine Grady, died at the Memorial Hospital.

"At Home" Day for Creditors of Woman

Chicago, June 27.—A unique day will be staged on July 10. Mrs. Frank Twiss, a woman, president and organizer of the Widows' Protective League, has invited all her creditors to call at her home between 10 and 12 o'clock the morning of that day, at 44 Surf street, and receive what is due.

Mrs. Brown, after two and a half years of watchful waiting, has come into possession of the estate of her late husband, and hastens to follow the example of the Village Ricks.

"He looks the whole world in the face, for he owes not any man."

HOLD E. J. SWIG CHARGES BY GIRLS

Taunton, June 27.—Judge Frederic B. Austin's court was jammed today when Edward J. Swig, son of Simon Swig, appeared for examination.

Judge Austin said that Swig was "probably guilty" of the charge of indecent assault on two Taunton girls. He held Mr. Swig in the city for the Grand Jury.

Julia Croft, eighteen years old, and eleven-year-old Edna, the complainants against Mr. Swig, were in court, but were not called to make further testimony concerning Swig's alleged attack upon them.

NEW YORK CITY ADVISORY

"Affectionate" came natural. It was a matter of the case. It was a matter of the case. It was a matter of the case.

MORSE REPEATS HIS CHARGES

Roth, June 27.—Charles W. Morse, the shipbuilder under indictment for alleged frauds against the government in connection with war-time contracts, made public a letter today in which he again charges that the government is represented by Attorney General Henry M. Duggan.

Milford, June 27.—James Coston, a Milford housewife, was cutting up a ham when a cleaver slipped and nearly severed her right hand.

SPOON FREE BRIDE'S MOON

Eleanor Montgomery Kaban, eighteen-year-old bride, whose wedding from Jack Kaban, son of the coffee king, was accompanied by a peculiarly terrible and violent attack both upon herself and her bridegroom.

Mrs. Kaban was taken by the Boston American the staff instrument of her story concerning this marriage and the latter's conduct.

BY BERT FORD

This chapter deals with the honeymoon of Jack and Eleanor Kaban in Bermuda.

"I don't think any girl ever had a more delightful honeymoon. To think that it should end so tragically results in such a few weeks! Thanks to Uncle Robert, Jack and I had a statement of the train and Uncle Bob said that it was converted into a veritable tower of Babel."

IF COPPERS SWORE THEY'D CUSS THOSE NEW BADGES

Boston police are wearing their new police badges today. Most of the officers do not like them. Among the complaints heard from officers are the following: The pin on the back of the badge is too large, causing the badge to stick out from the coat and collar. The edges of the badge are too long, thus tearing the coat when the badge is removed.

MUST PAY $25 WEEKLY

Following action taken against him by his wife Maudie, Gefen is ordered to pay her $25 a week for the mortgage aggregating nearly $10,000 on her home. He is charged with neglect of his wife and child.

KEPT MILK BOTTLE CHECKS

"When there is a check representing a milk bottle, it is a milk bottle check. My husband looks at it, too, so he doesn't cash it. He keeps it until I come home. He keeps it until I come home. He keeps it until I come home."

CALLER MONEY MAD

"My people have always felt their money was the life of their money."

Flapper Rides Five Miles While Charlie Toth, the "Sea Lion" Pulls the Boat

Several Others Also Enjoy the Trip and Big Lad Hates to Stop

BY THE FLAPPER.

I went boat riding yesterday with Charlie Toth. Did he get that name? Well, remember it—you'll hear more about that lad later. He's a sea lion.

Now when Charlie takes a flapper for a boat ride he doesn't take along any cars. Nope, Charlie's no cake-eater—he travels on his own steam.

He overhauled his row-boat with a collection of his pals and then towed them about among the breakers. And his pals are husky babies, too.

We started yesterday from L street, South Boston. There were seven of us in the boat. Charlie ducked his head under a harness and went to it.

"Let's ride up the harbor and swim back," suggested Charlie's manager, Gus Wise.

Charlie vetoed suggestion.

"An' then again," returned Charlie, hobbling up from the water, "I don't like to come out for a ride."

"The tide's going three miles an hour against you," argued Gus, who has a horse.

"That's all right," gurgled Charlie—he stays pretty well subsea—"we'll swim four miles an hour against it. A mile an hour's better'n nothing."

"How does he get that way?" I asked Gus, as Charlie glistened and oiled his hair.

"He eats raw fish," said Gus. "Keep to the right, Cholly—don't let the traffic rule."

"Started at 10:55 a. m.," shouted the man who was keeping the score. "Wind due East."

PRACTICING FOR CHANNEL.

"A nasty wind," worried Gus. "But that's what he wanted. Let's have it."

"Why does Charlie play these games?" I asked Gus. "Aren't they a little bit rough?"

"He's practicing to make the English Channel swim in August," explained Gus. "And he'll make it, too. Giddap, Cholly, let's see the canoe's passin' by."

"Reminds me," said the man in the boat who is always being reminded of something, "of what happened to Margie."

"What happened to Margie?" we asked obligingly.

"She went out in a boat with her husband—and when they got way out he tossed her overboard."

"Know any more jokes?" Gus asked.

"No, I haven't told you the worst. Every time she came up the wrench hit her over the head with an oar—"

"Serves her right," snorted Gus. "The poor dumb-bell—why'd she come up?"

"I don't know the story—"

"Don't talk so much," said Gus. "You're bothering the sea horse."

Gus thumbed over his shoulder at the man who knew another story.

"So dumb," he said, "he thinks Babe Ruth wrote 'The Bat.' Turn around, Charlie—we've been out an hour."

"Turned off Castle Island, 12:10, noon," shouted the score keeper.

"I don't wanna go back," snarled Charlie. But he flapped around. Gus is the boss.

MOTHER ENDS HER LIFE AT STATION

Neils and Doris Thomson, ten and two years old, respectively, waited patiently all morning for their mother to return home.

When she left Monday afternoon to go to town from her home at No. 12 Glenview place, Quincy, to buy Neils a pair of shoes she had given each of the children a nickel to buy an ice cream cone, and a time for good nights.

When they asked their father, George Thomson, where mother was, he turned her head away so they couldn't see the town.

Then mother came home. She was brought home in a big black automobile. She was dead.

Shortly after midnight George Thomson received a call from the Boston police. He had returned from his work in the shipyards at Quincy where he is employed as a fitter. The children told him that mother was not at home.

GIRL, 16, TIES ABDUCTOR IN BED, FLEES

By International News Service, Alexandria, Va., June 27.—Hortense Spohnshower, sixteen years old, missing from her home for several days, returned today with a tale of experiences that moved authorities to investigation.

According to her story, the girl was abducted by a gray-haired man in Washington last Wednesday night at the point of a revolver. When she recovered this was in an automobile speeding north and had been lashed with a typewriter needle.

The girl declared her abductor took her to various rooming houses in Baltimore and Philadelphia and in the latter city she succeeded in escaping by tying her cap to the wheel with the bedclothes which he was asleep. She returned to his home in this city in the morning, and was then returned to Washington by train.

COUNSEL'S VERSION.

A cousin to whom Jane has confided her troubles said today Jane had remained out on that occasion because she saw her parents' law for her and she was afraid to enter the house.

Jane has a hard time, said the cousin. "She works in a stockbroker's office and goes to continuation school. When she comes home she has to do something to eat, but her mother won't let her."

She has no money to go to the movies and she has to do something to eat, but her mother won't let her.

When we got back to the hotel, he pounded his fist and took a deep breath.

Landed at 1:05 p. m. Pulled a load of 1450 pounds five miles," said the score-keeper.

"Two and a half miles against the tide, and two and a half with it."

"And now," said Charlie, "I've got to get to work."

"What?" I gasped. "Haven't you been working?"

"That," grinned long-distance Charlie, "was just warming up. My real day begins at five o'clock. I'm a waiter at the Westminster Hotel. And I take to be late to my meals!"

NAVY YARD FIRE PUT OUT BY ALL HANDS

All the fire-fighting apparatus the Charleston Navy Yard called out today when fire started on Pier 5 and threatened to spread to the U. S. S. Neptuns and adjoining pier.

A group of workmen were running gasoline drums from the dunnage, which is being dismantled. Some of the gasoline leaked through from the height car in which the drums were being loaded, and flowed along the pier. In some places the gasoline became ignited and there was a sudden flare of fire.

The alarm was sounded and rioters rushed to the scene within half an hour, armed with bricks and regular police rifles pointed at the scene. The bus was exiting almost in a few minutes with but slight damage.

POLICE REVEALED "ANUSKEGG"

By CHARLES O. POWER
Manchester, N. H., June 27.—If you are a drinker or suspected of associating with the tens of thousands who quit their jobs in the Amoskeag Mills twenty weeks ago, or live on a street through which a strikebreaker may pass on the way and from the mills, you are apt to feel the heavy hand of the police, if you don't watch out.

All streets lead up to the mills, either directly or indirectly, and as most people are in sympathy with the strikers, there is a possibility of wholesale arrests here within the next few days of old and young men and women and even children.

Chief of Police Michael J. Healy has decreed that no man's house in his native Manchester, that no man or his wife may sit on his own front doorstep, or children play in the front yard within certain hours prescribed by him. And he does not seem to talk about it. It just can't be done, that's all.

POWER UNDER INJUNCTION.
This is power assumed under the terms of the injunction issued by the Superior Court enjoining the strikers and their abettors and sympathizers from picketing at the mill gates and the approaches thereto, and from otherwise annoying the few operatives employed at present in the Amoskeag.

The worst of it is, the strikers' petition for a modification of the terms of the injunction cannot be considered by Judge Sawyer for at least another week, and the sitting of the trial of a famous case which is expected to last all of this week.

In the meantime Chief Healy can interpret and enforce the injunction to suit his every purpose, and every stranger wearing a union suit will be in danger of being under suspicion as a union abettor.

Women have been fined in the middle of the night by police sergeants and patrolmen, who have been accused from their aloof, called to their doors and started with no reason, glare of flashlight and order to get out. They are warned that they must not let their children play on the sidewalk or in the yard by police sergeants acting under the orders of Chief Healy.

POLICE OUTRAGES SWORN TO.
More than thirty residents of Granite street and vicinity on the west side have not felt in affidavit alleged facts of police outrages and abuse of authority. They are anxious to go to court and make their case known to a judge that their protest is truthful and their indignation altogether justified.

One woman says a policeman approached her and told her that if she did not stop children playing in the yard which was under their jurisdiction, she would be arrested. She replied that she would not try to stop them, but she would tell them to go. The policeman then told her that if she did not stop them, she would be arrested. She replied that she would not try to stop them, but she would tell them to go.

"You really should use Sypho-Nathol"
"Gladys Lodge is such a conservative little body. When she prattles anything, you know it's good."

"It's Sypho-Nathol depends," said, when asked, "what you mean. I should say it is. I know, because I feel just as you do about disinfectants. They're all so small so terribly, or else you have to be a regular chemist to use them properly. But Sypho-Nathol is so very different. It's so pleasant to use, so safe, so easy to repeat."

"Gladys told me how terribly her sick drain had smelt, and how the used Sypho-Nathol had remedied matters. She told me of the many other uses she has found for it—how she puts it in the mop-water every day, how it keeps the urinals sweet and clean and free from flies; how she uses it as a sanitary safeguard around bathroom fixtures and as a regular flush for the closet bowl; how she sprinkles it in the cellar and attic corners."

"She was so enthusiastic that I phoned the grocer right away to take a bottle in my order. Now, too, use Sypho-Nathol just as regularly as Gladys—and I am just as enthusiastic. If you're not already done so, you should order a bottle of Sypho-Nathol right this minute."

Most Beautiful Girl Sues Theatrical Manager
Paris, June 27.—Because he dashed her hopes of becoming a stage star, France's "most beautiful girl" is suing a theatrical manager for breach of contract.

Elected by popular vote, France's queen of queens for 1922, Miss Germaine Bacchi, expected to fulfill her childhood dreams of appearing before the footlights. She turned down many offers of marriage, she alleges, to sign a contract for the operetta, "Helen's Return," but the role went to a rival beauty.

street on their way to the Coliseum by shouting, "Eight hours!" That constituted a violation of the injunction. In the opinion of the chief, she was informed, and if she did not stop a step to it she would suffer.

ORDERED OFF SIDEWALK.
There were fifteen incidents in this particular house and there were about thirty children playing on the sidewalk. The police were called to the cup to go ahead and arrest her. She was told to get out of the house and not to come back. She was told to get out of the house and not to come back.

Believe Bielaski Will Be Freed in 24 Hours
By International News Service.
Mexico City, June 27.—Officials here anxiously awaited word tonight of the release of Bielaski, former chief of the Bureau of Investigation of the American Department of Justice, who was kidnapped near Cuernavaca on Sunday with Messrs. Barona, a Mexican lawyer Barona was released upon a "symbol" of $100,000, but Bielaski had been originally demanded for release of Bielaski, but later the bandits increased their demands.

It is believed that the former American official will be free and safe within another twenty-four hours.

After his release Barona sent the following telegram from Cuernavaca: "Released today. Send more money for Bielaski. Colonel Padilla is fixing everything tonight. Will see you on Tuesday." Colonel Padilla is attached to the presidential staff. He had been sent to Cuernavaca by President Obregon as soon as the latter heard of the kidnapping.

Mr. Olmstead told the court he resigned because the duties of the position were becoming burdensome.

'GOSBOR' NOW READY FOR BATTLE

Refaat, June 27.—The Lord Mayor of Belfast began negotiating today for a ten-day truce with the Sinn Féin.

By International News Service.
Dublin, June 27.—A new threat of war was made in Ireland this afternoon. The threat was made by Rodrick O'Connor, commander of the Irish Republican army.

As a result of the announcement of the Irish Republican army, the Free State must clean out the headquarters of the Irish Republican army. The Irish Republican army is now in a position to take over the government of Ireland.

Irish Rebels Put in Jail at Dublin
Dublin, June 27 (By Associated Press).—The Four Courts irregulars have kidnapped Lieutenant-General O'Connor, assistant chief of staff of the regular army, and are holding him as a hostage for the release of the Irish Republican army.

London, June 27.—Colonel Secretary Churchill's warning that the Irish Provisional Government must clean out the irregulars before the regulars will be sent to Ireland, was followed today by a statement from the Provisional Government that it was ready to do so.

A brand new method of settling arguments has been found. It is the fire alarm.

His men were arguing opposite the Mayor's street police station. One of the party thought the argument would soon end in a riot of fire or artillery practice. He fled to the red box under the red light, twisted the handle, pulled the bell, and awaited the evening squad of bluecoats to restore peace to his courtyard.

Instead, five engines blazed down the street, followed by the hose and ladder, while his comrades fled.

RATHENAU SHOT HIT GERMANY, SAYS EBERT

By the Associated Press.
Berlin, June 27.—The assassin who killed Dr. Walter Rathenau, Germany's Foreign Minister, was striking at the republican government of Germany and its people, declared President Ebert at Dr. Rathenau's funeral in the Reichstag chamber today.
"The bullet," he said, "robbed the nation of one of her most loyal patriots, one of the ablest champions of German rejuvenation. This murder is a crime against our industrial, suffering, hopeful people."
From the former imperial box, on the seat of honor was wont to occupy on state occasions, Frau Emil Rathenau, widow of the dead minister, heard the President's oration and the address of other leaders in German public life who praised the character and achievements of her murdered son.
Around her sat members of the diplomatic corps, including Alano B. Huntington, the American ambassador.
The vicinity of the Reichstag building was crowded with masses of people observing the day's solemnity from labor decided upon to protest against the crime.
One man is reported killed and others wounded in disturbances in Hamburg over the assassination of Foreign Minister Rathenau.
Four departmental chiefs and 200 inspectors are following clues to the assassin of Foreign Minister Rathenau, and fifty squads are scouring the country.
The government has requested the authorities at Helsinki, Finland, to detain three men who embarked on a steamship at Berlin. This was an avenue of escape open to the assassin, one theory being that they reached Stralsund, west of Berlin, a half hour after the murder and there found an airplane which took them to the Baltic port.
ACCUSE SOUTH BOSTON MAN AS DRAFT DESERTER

Navy Revokes Order to Drop 1,000 Men at Charlestown

Charlestown Navy Yard employees are rejoicing over revocation of a telegram from Senator Henry Cabot Lodge announcing that order discharging 1,000 men at Charlestown has been rescinded.
The message was received by William A. McDonald, chairman of the Naval Trades' Council, who had asked the Senator to do all in his power to prevent the wholesale dismissals. Senator Lodge stated in the message that he would do all in his power to obtain more work and better wages for the Charlestown yard.

BOY SCOUTS AID IN SEARCH FOR MISSING GIRL

Schenectady, N. Y., June 27.—Boy Scouts are searching the woods on the outskirts of this city for some trace of pretty Helen Poth, seven years old, who has been mysteriously missing from her home since Sunday night.
The girl lived with her sister, Mrs. Joseph Kollach, wife of a local business man. Early Sunday evening she left the house to go to a nearby drug store. She did not appear at the store and was not seen by any of her friends.
The theory is advanced by Mrs. Kollach that her sister may have been strung and killed by a passing motorist, and her body taken to the woods, not far distant. Mrs. Kollach said her sister was in fine spirits when she left home and that there was no reason why she should run away.
Miss Poth was engaged to marry Harvey Kollach of New York, a brother of her landlady, and had been notified that she could not remain for the disappearance of his fiancée.
A search of the girl's room showed that none of her clothing was missing.

Met his wife in San Francisco, proposed to her five minutes after meeting, was accepted and she has since accompanied him on his jaunt around world. Here just left Boston for Washington.

WE'RE BOUND TO HAVE WEATHER WHETHER WE like it or not, so Uncle Sam is now giving "Us Girls" the high sign on the weather dope by radio so we won't wend our way backward in a cream puff outfit if it's gonna rain. Here is Helen Lynch getting the "low down" on what to wear for the day. The weather report is broadcasted from the Arlington, Va., radio station at 10 a. m. and 10 p. m.

BRIG-GEN. JOHN H. DUNN TAKING OATH AS the new State Commander of the Massachusetts Veterans of Foreign Wars! Gen. Dunn of South Boston won the election over Col. Roy D. Jones of Springfield by 70 votes at the State encampment, Springfield. He is shown being sworn in by the National Deputy Chief of Staff, Capt. J. B. Casey.

THE MILK OF HUMAN KINDNESS IS TO PLEASE Little City Dwellers! Here we observe Miss Lillian Beckman providing one of the Boston American's little Nantasket trip guests with his share of milk. "Candy," he gurgled, "this milk is as good as the 'Marian's' of milk." There's a bribe every day. Read the news columns for details.

BOTH Jupiter and Saturn have quite a family of moons. Jupiter owns nine and Saturn ten. Many of them are about the same size as our own satellite. Saturn has, in addition, a wonderful system of rings inside the path of its nearest moon.

She heard his voice waiting at the door. She opened the door stop the village organist would pull out for the sale of pathos.
The organist was a man of and trashy, yet it was the truth for her, as for millions of others who were broken hearts, it was broken so many hearts.

She felt a full, guilty foot. The organist was a man of pathos, voice—all, all was insanity. But it swept her heartstrings with a melancholy and they sang with a mad despair.

She vaguely knew that the cacophony had ceased to pursue the top of the hills, the music was ended. But she suffering went on.

am willing to stay here just as long as I can be of use to Mr. Hollingshead. But, as she is not—I mean, if she continues to be as little as she does today, perhaps you will not need me!" She had fortified herself to utter this, and had repeated the phrase to herself again and again, as she had sat in the sick-room upon the Carpet, 117, many times.
